Lesson #2: "Ten Facts about Jesus"

SUPPLEMENTARY MATERIAL THE CONVERSION OF AN INFIDEL

The following testimony of an unbelieving man who finally yielded to the claims of Christ will stir your heart:

"I was reared an infidel. . I was nourished on the vaunting skeptics of the ages. But I observed with futile amazement with which every skeptic, from Celsus to Wells, stood around the cradle of the Christ. I wondered why this helpless Babe was thrust into the world at a time when Roman greed, Jewish hate, and Greek subtlety would combine to crush Him. And yet this most powerful devastating combination ever known in history served only to advance the cause of the Infant who was born in a stable.

"I marveled that this poverty-stricken uneducated plebeian who exercised no authority, commanded no army, held no office, received no honors, wrote no books, and who died in early manhood the most contemptible of deaths, a malefactor on a cross between two criminals - I marveled that His name is yet the most esteemed name on earth, even among the skeptics themselves.

"No unbeliever could tell me why His words are as charged with power today as they were nineteen hundred years ago. Nor could scoffers explain how those pierced hands pulled human monsters with gnarled souls out of a hell of iniquity and overnight transformed them into steadfast, glorious heroes who died in tortures.

"No doubter could tell me how this isolated Jew could utter words so simple that a child could understand them and so deep that the greatest thinkers cannot plumb their shining depths. The life, the words, the character of this strange Man are the enigma of history. Any natural explanation makes Him a more puzzling paradox, a fathomless mystery.

"But I learned that the paradox was plain and the mystery solved when I accepted Him for what He claimed to be—the Son of God, come from heaven and Saviour of men, but above all, my own Saviour."

This testimony, by a man who learned to know Jesus, appears in a remarkable little book written by Earle Albert Rowell, himself a converted infidel. (David Dare) The book gives an account of Mr. Rowell's experiences in speaking to large gatherings of skeptics, agnostics, and infidels throughout North America.
